BEN BUTLER.

Pen Picture of the Governor by the President of the Massachusetts Republican State Convention.

Boston, September 19.—Charles R. Codman was chosen president of the Republican state convention, and made an address of considerable length, chiefly in reference to the present governor. He reviewed the Tawkestry affair, and said: "One man has led this crusade against the fair fame of Massachusetts—a man conspicuous always for great audacity, of ready wit, of volatile and eloquent speech and of restless personal ambition—a man of national notoriety surely, if not of national reputation, who has often solicited and sometimes obtained the votes of the people, but who has never been able to retain them long. A legislator identified with congressional raids upon the treasury, a politician who has proposed to the people of the United States to repudiate their honest debts and so make their great and solvent country a by word among the nations of the earth. A major general whose most valuable service were as a provost marshal and never as a leader of men, and whose successes were those of a sutor and not of a strategist." His references to Butler's political and military record and "national notoriety" was loudly applauded by the delegates, and he was given three cheers when he concluded.

THE LIBERATOR.

Europe and America to be invited to Participate in the Unveiling of Bol-ivar's Statue.

New York, September 19.—Representative of the republics of South and Central America held a meeting here for the purpose of inviting a delegation from several states of the Union and from Europe to unite with them in unveiling a bronze statue of General Simon Bolivar, the liberator, on February 22d next in Central Park. The statue is a gift from Venezuela to the city of New York. It is expected that a large number of representatives from the United States, Central and South America and Europe will be present and it is intended to endeavor to form a congress through which permanent peace and union may be secured to the South and Central American republics.

A COMBINATION BROKERS.

The Great Match Monopoly Ended—Prices Reduced Fifty Per Cent.

Milwaukee, September 19.—The Diamond match company, the largest concern of the kind in this country, owning factories at Oskosh and elsewhere, has issued price lists making sweeping reductions in wholesale prices. The reduction is over fifty per cent. Matches which have been selling at $1.50 per case will now sell for $1.50 or $2.50, with discounts to large purchasers. The conclusion is that the great match combination is broken.

School for Young Ladies.

A select school for young ladies will be opened in this city September 10th by Mrs. Mat Welch Hill on East Belknap street, two doors below the residence of Robert McCarl, Esq. Mrs. Hill will give instructions in all the classics, including Latin and French and the higher branches of mathematics. Music will also be taught and the school will be complete in all its branches and just such a one as is necessary to the proper and thorough training of young ladies. For rates, apply to the principal. Mrs. Hill also has a vacant room in the house which she would like to rent to a single or widow lady who would be a companion for her.
